► Course Overview:

We currently operate in a rapidly changing global business environment. Ever increasing competition both domestic and international, rising threats posed by information technology impose significant and increased risks to our organizations and our ability to create customer value in a sustainable manner.

Lapses in managerial leadership have also exposed organizations, large and small to the negative impact of risks. Our organizations also face a more highly regulated world with compliance becoming more complex and onerous. The ability to comprehensively identify, correctly assess and decisively respond to a variety of risks confronting us is critical to maintaining our competitive advantage and continued success.

This course provides participants with the necessary tools and techniques to successfully identify assess and respond to risks. We also equip participants with the skills and knowledge to create an effective compliance regime within their respective organizations. The course uses case studies, group discussions and presentations to create an interactive and engaging learning experience.

► Course Content:

1. The risk management and compliance framework
2. Risk analysis, measurement and response
3. Risk management systems
4. Corporate governance risk management issues
5. IT risk and fraud risk
6. The role of the risk management and audit committees
7. Compliance responsibilities of the board and management
8. Effective reporting of risk and compliance

► Course Objectives:

The aims of the course are as follows:

1. To provide a practical understanding of the nature of business risks faced by organizations.
2. To examine the impact of risk on the decision-making processes of organizations.
3. To review the techniques used to identify, categorize and measure these risks.
4. To examine strategies and techniques used to mitigate the impact of these risks on the business, including the role of strategy formulation and implementation and the development of effective risk control strategies, processes and structures.
5. To understand the compliance requirements of the organization and to examine practical ways of ensuring these requirements are met.

This course will enable participants to gain a better understanding of the significance of adequately assessing and managing risk in the context of the management of business operations and in making informed business decisions. It will also enable participants to implement processes to understand and meet compliance requirements of the organization.
